Objective: Seeking to use my detail oriented, organizational skills, and training in the safety and health field focusing on analysis and problem solving. I am looking to use my conventional education and safety training to look for areas of potential risk and workplace hazards to mitigate costs associated with unsafe practices while continually to look for improvements in operational effectiveness and efficiency. I also bring with me a strong work ethic, an adaptability to changing project details, a changing workforce, and the willingness to continue learning about industry improvements which will be an asset to company growth and profitability.
